“The delicious Formaglini Vineyards Insieme Cuvee draws great character from its estate Lagrein grape, yet is soulfully blended with the distinct 93-point La Quercia Block Pinot Noir. Insieme is oozing with personality and leaves you yearning for another glass.”

Formaglini Vineyards 2013 Insieme Cuvee

Terroir: The Formaglini Vineyards Insieme Cuvee is a beautiful blend hailing from our 93-point La Quercia Block Pinot Noir (75%) blended with Lagrein from the Verrazano Block (25%). David de Lancellotti’s passion for Italian experiences led him to plant the cult Italian grape, Lagrein; thus creating this unheralded red wine blend showcasing the Chehalem Mountains terroir in an Old World wine style.

Tasting Notes: Deep dark garnet red characterizes the Lagrein grape, which is finely balanced with our 828 Pinot Noir clone. Complex, spicy-fruity aromas on the nose spotlighting red berries, plums, dried figs, hints of chocolate, and a slightly smoky note. On the palate, the wine gives meaty tannins and pronounced robust structure, yet a silky, soft fullness with a lusciously long finish.

David de Lancellotti, the WineGrower’s, 2013 Insight: The 2013 Vintage was a tale of two vintages. We pulled the first four Pinot clones on September 15 just before the storm as up to the 15th the weather pattern was very similar to 2012. Later, we pulled the Pinot Noir clone and the Lagrein clone after the storm on September 25th and co-fermented them for this unique blend.
